Goldwater Wants TV Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater was described today as willing to face President Johnson in a television series proposed by the National Broadcasting Co.

Goldwater's press secretary, Paul Wagner, said the Arizona senator wouldn't be interested in a format that would have the presidential contenders appear separately.

Johnson was silent on the NBC invitation to put him and Goldwater — jointly or separately — on the air in a full hour series of "Meet the Press" television programs.

NBC board chairman Robert W. Sarnoff outlined the offer in identical telegrams to Goldwater and Johnson. He said the plan was designed to substitute for actual television debates.

Goldwater could not be reached for comment, but Wagner said the Republican nominee "would accept on a face-to-face basis only."

"Separate appearances is hardly a debate," the press secretary said.

Meanwhile, Republican National Chairman Dean Burch charged Senate Democrats obviously were operating on instructions from Johnson when they rolled up a party line majority Tuesday night to kill legislation aimed at paving the way for debates on radio and television by suspending the "equal time" requirement for the presidential campaign.

"I can understand why President Johnson desires to avoid debating Sen. Goldwater, having seen the President on television several times," Burch said.

He said the Republican National Committee is willing to put up half the cost of television time if Johnson will agree to appear with Goldwater.

Goldwater, in a speech at the Illinois State Fair Wednesday, declared: "I am willing to debate and I'm willing to pay for the time."

Later, Goldwater told reporters "the Republican party will pay for it. We'll buy the time." He estimated it would cost about $500,000 to air a debate on three television networks.

Sarnoff proposed a series of six programs, two of them for appearances by Rep. William E. Miller, the Republican vice presidential nominee, and the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

He said the programs would be scheduled Sunday nights on the NBC radio and television networks, between early September and Election Day.

NBC offered to make them available to other networks.

$1,500 Theft Near Columbiana Probed

COLUMBIANA — Sheriff's deputies are investigating the theft of $1,500 in currency and endorsed checks from a truck owned by Fritz Mullens, owner of Mullen's Shell Station on Route 164 southwest of Columbiana, Wednesday night.

Mullens told Deputy Herman Wellman the theft occurred between 11 and 11:30 as he was locking up for the night. He said he had gone to his truck nearby and then went back to the building. When he returned to drive away, the money was missing.

Mullens notified Columbiana police who reported the incident to Sheriff Russell VanFossan.

Columbiana Firemen Respond to Call

COLUMBIANA — Columbiana Volunteer Firemen received a call at 1:50 p.m. Wednesday to put out a brush fire at the home of Harry Pittman of Lower Elkton Rd. When firemen arrived, they found a brush fire under control at the home of William Reash, a neighbor of Pittman, also of Lower Elkton Rd.

Fire Chief Marcus Hum said that no more township fire calls will be taken without the caller giving his name since no one seems to know who placed the call. He added that legitimate calls will be promptly answered.

INCREASING VISIBILITY — Workmen in Atlantic City, N. J., Convention Hall puts deep scallop in front of the speaker's stand from which President Johnson will appear during the Democratic National Convention next week. The cut was made after it was discovered the stand was so high that many delegates seated in front rows would be unable to see the Chief Executive.

Senate Approval Doubtful

House OK's Bill on Apportionment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen pressed today for a showdown in the congressional battle over reapportionment — and the Supreme Court — immediately after Democrats hold their national convention.

The Senate, already snarled by a filibuster against Dirksen's proposal for delaying court-ordered reapportionment by population of both houses of state legislatures, received a much tougher proposal from the House Wednesday.

Urged to show its "intestinal fortitude," the House approved 218 to 175 a bill that would strip federal courts of jurisdiction in reapportionment cases.

To try to push his proposal through, Dirksen has offered it as a rider to the $3.3-billion foreign aid bill, one of the measures on the administration's "must list."

Dirksen said the House measure would increase pressure in the Senate for adoption of his amendment and might shorten the fight Senate Democrats liberals are making to prevent a vote on his proposal.

"If the filibuster doesn't stop when Congress reconvenes after the Democratic National Convention next week," Dirksen told a reporter, "I'll have no choice but to file a cloture petition."

He said he was confident proponents could muster the necessary two-thirds majority of senators present and voting to bring the debate to an end.

Opponents of Dirksen's rider, including Sens. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., and Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., said they would continue their talkathon indefinitely.

The Senate recesses Friday night until Aug. 31. The Democratic National Convention opens Monday in Atlantic City, N.J.

The House bill, introduced by Rep. William M. Tucker, D-Va., was sped to the House floor in a power display by Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., chairman

For the Bird's

Animals May Be Used In Reconnaissance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is wondering whether the job of scouting out a hidden enemy may be for the birds. It is paying something more than chicken feed to find out.

The research program already has winged into its second phase.

The results of an initial feasibility study on birds' reconnaissance potential so encouraged Army scientists at the Aberdeen, Md., Proving Ground that a $174,472 contract has been signed with the General Atomics Corp. of Philadelphia.

When the Army awarded the contract, it would say only that it was a "research program of training birds for field surveillance" and that "the project is classified."

A spokesman went a bit farther today in answering questions. "The initial program was a study of the learning ability of birds. In this case, the study was to determine whether a bird can be taught to recognize the presence of a person and, if so, would the bird perform characteristic action indicating such recognition," the spokesman said.

"The feasibility study indicated positively that a bird can be taught and that a bird will perform a characteristic response indicating recognition of the

LBJ's Financial Report Is Hit

GOP Chairman Says Facts' Misleading

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman Dean Burch indicates he believes President Johnson and his family are a lot richer than accountants say and that Republicans intend to make a campaign issue of how the first family accumulated its wealth.

Burch, who was handicapped for his job by GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater, told a news conference Wednesday that the accounting firm's estimate of the Johnsons' wealth at $3,484,098 was "incredibly low."

The accounting was made at Johnson's request and the report was released by the White House.

Burch complained that assets were listed on the basis of cost to the Johnsons. He said this was "like listing the value of Manhattan Island at $24."

He insisted the fair market value ought to be the basis for assessing the family wealth.

Some published reports have worth as high as $14 million.

No Decision On Leetonia Gates Made

By ARDETH KRIDLER

LEETONIA — A reply from the Erie and Pennsylvania Railroad regarding the village's formal request for installation of blinker lights at railroad crossings at Washington and Wilson Sts. and sidewalk gates at the Pennsylvania crossing on Chestnut St. was read when Council met Wednesday.

The railroads protested the need for more protective devices at the crossing. Next step in the decision on whether or not to put up the signals and gates was stated in a letter from the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, which said that it will send two men to investigate the crossings after school starts. They will take traffic counts and pictures to further evaluate the situation.

Ralph Snoosetta, Jr., a village employee at the disposal plant, was present at the meeting to inquire about the results of a finance committee meeting which was to have been scheduled before the council meeting in regard to his request for an increase in salary.

The meeting did not take place because the council president was on vacation. A meeting was set up for 7 p.m. Monday when the committee will review the entire village's employee salary system for a report at the next Council session.

In other business, Council accepted the donation of a coal furnace and one and one-half tons of coal from Dale McCormick, a councilman, to be in-

New Attack Launched In Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Premier Moise Tshombe moved today to oust thousands of citizens of nations accused of undercutting his regime, as fighting raged in the east Congo city of Bukavu invaded by rebel forces.

As the spreading Communist-backed rebellion seemed to take a turn for the worse, Tshombe said he believed a report that Peking-trained rebel leader Pierre Mulele, 33, was dead. Diplomatic sources, however, believe the former Congolese education minister was alive in Brazzaville, the former French Congo.

Government forces in Bukavu were reported pushed back to the city's European quarter, but Col. Leonard Mulamba said he believed he could retake the rebel-held part of the city if reinforcements were available. U.S. cargo planes airlifted two loads of troops and supplies to the besieged city during the night.

The U.S. Embassy said that its seven or eight-man staff in Bukavu fled to neighboring Rwanda after heavy street fighting erupted Wednesday. A plane load of 40 refugees, mostly U.N. personnel, arrived in Leopoldville Wednesday night.

A government garrison of some 800 troops was fighting to salvage the city, capital of central Kivu Province and the only important city in the turbulent northeastern Congo still under government control.

The rebels, who hold an estimated 25 per cent of this vast and mineral-rich nation, captured the key city of Stanleyville two weeks ago.

The Bukavu uprising came after a government order in Leopoldville to deport citizens of Brazzaville, Burundi and Mali whose governments are accused of backing the revolt.

Denouncing the governments as accomplices of Communist China, Tshombe told a news conference that his order would be lifted only if their support of the rebellion ends. He accused China of moving to use the Congo as a base to take over all of Africa.

Vindicator Strike In Second Day

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — A skeleton crew of 30 supervisory personnel was to attempt to publish again today the strike-bound Youngstown Vindicator.

The supervisors spent the night in the building, sleeping on couches or cots they had brought in. They published an estimated 3,200 copies of an 8-page edition Wednesday that were sold over the counter in the lobby of the building.

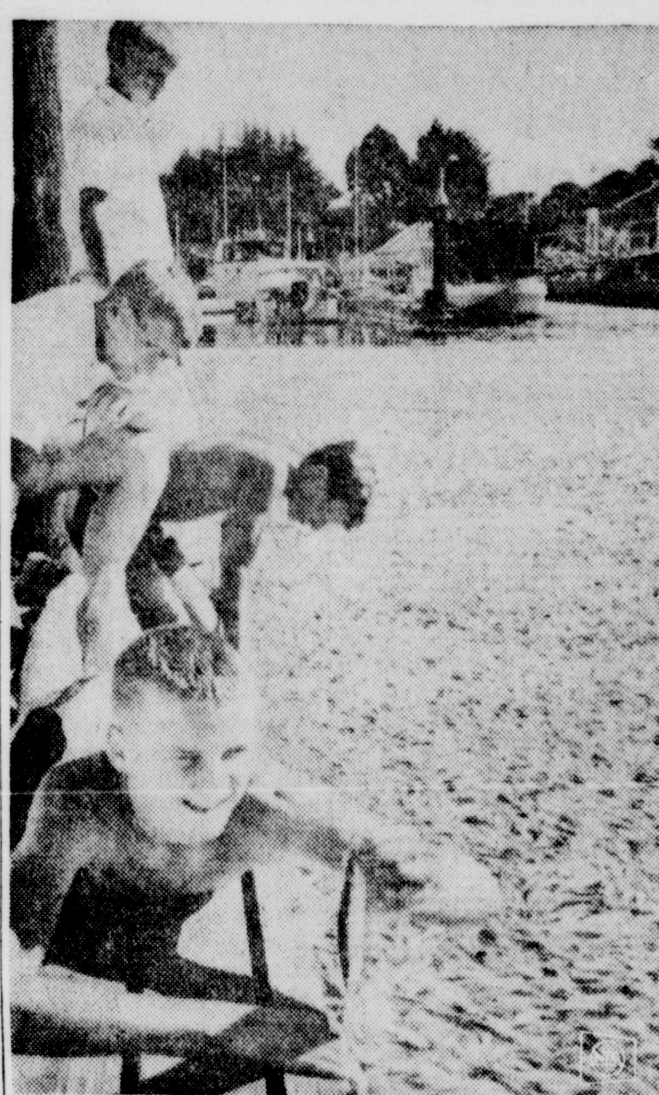

The Vindicator, only daily and Sunday newspaper in Youngstown, has never lost a day of publication due to a strike. Failure to make home deliveries Wednesday, however, was the first time in the paper-75-year history.

A management spokesman said there were several picket line incidents when non-union employees tried to enter the downtown plant. "There was some pushing and jostling but nothing serious," said Fred T. Kearney, president of Local 11 of the American Newspaper Guild.

The Guild, representing 110 editorial, classified advertising and circulation employees, struck Tuesday night in a dispute over a new contract for circulation department employees.

SEA OF FISH — Millions of small fish, anchovies, have floated ashore, almost filling the Santa Cruz, Calif., yacht harbor. The fish were victims of an ocean "red tide" caused by a spurt in the growth of algae which tints the sea reddish and uses up so much oxygen that fish suffocate.

Beaver Area to Raise Transportation Funds

A campaign to raise money to pay for transportation of students living within one mile of school in the Beaver Local School District will be under way as the result of a special meeting Wednesday between the school board and a citizens committee.

The meeting was called to try to work out a solution to the board's recently-adopted policy whereby students living within one mile of school would not be furnished transportation to school.

Although, by law, the school board is not responsible for transportation of students within a two-mile radius of the school, the citizens of Rogers claim that the law cannot and should not apply to this particular area since the school is located out of town along Route 7 with no sidewalks.

Forty persons, including 25 residents of the Rogers area, were present at the meeting.

Each of the district's four areas involved — Rogers, Elkton, West Point and Calcutta — will have a goal of $300 to meet to provide the transportation and the four areas must all meet their goals to have the program go into effect. This means that even though one, two or three areas might raise the money, they could not re-

In other business, Bob Lewis, county extension agent in 4-H work, asked the board for 25 more stalls for horses and ponies of 4-H members and the board agreed to furnish a tent for these overflowing displays.

The board agreed to put large antique items in a tent for display during the fair, smaller antique articles will be housed in a building so that they can be watched more closely.

May Okay Talks At Later Date

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater left the door open today for intelligence briefings from President Johnson's advisers — but said he is not going to be trapped into campaign silence about things he already knows.

"I will ask for intelligence briefings when I feel they are needed," the Republican nominee for president said Wednesday in an interview.

Goldwater indicated he has no plans now to ask for such sessions.

Johnson offered intelligence briefings last April to all the Republican contenders for the presidential nomination.

Goldwater rejected the offer. He said secret briefings could stifle legitimate campaign debate.

But he said then that if he won the Republican nomination he would expect the administration to provide "the regular briefings made available to other candidates in the past."

The Arizona senator coupled his remarks Wednesday on administration briefings with a new slap at an old campaign target, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

He accused the Pentagon chief of making public top secret information "that I have held respect for" in challenging Goldwater's statements on defense matters.

Goldwater told newsmen his early campaign speeches are going to be aimed in large measure at clearing up what he views as wrong impressions left campaign.

He said Govs. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York — his chief rivals for the nomination — "have done me more harm than Johnson could ever do me."

The senator said his early campaign speeches will be designed in part to straightening out incorrect impressions about his views on war and peace, income taxes, Social Security and other issues.

Impressions arising from what Scranton and Rockefeller said about you?" a reporter asked.

"Yes," the senator said. It was learned Goldwater views Scranton as his logical successor as Republican standard bearer should he lose in November by a wide margin.

Goldwater was said to feel that if he loses by a slim margin, he could well get another shot at the presidency himself four years from now.

Private Clubs

Few Businesses Try Dodging Rights Law

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Only a small percentage of businesses in the South have turned into private clubs to avoid integration since enactment of the civil rights law.

An Associated Press survey showed scattered instances of restaurant — and one hotel — changing to restricted memberships as a means of keeping out Negroes.

In Mississippi 13 businesses have been issued private club charters by the secretary of state since the new law was signed by President Johnson last July 2.

"If I took Negro customers, I would go out of business," explained one businessman. "If I didn't, I would be in trouble with the government. This way the club selects its members and we avoid trouble."

In Jackson, Miss., the Robert E. Lee Hotel obtained a private club charter but has not disclosed details of its planned operation. In Little Rock, Ark., the state capitol cafeteria was incorporated as a private club shortly after the civil rights law was enacted. An aide to Gov. Orval E. Faubus serves as corporation president.

The AP survey showed only half a dozen switches in Alabama which Negro leaders last spring labeled a major desegregation target.

A restaurant near Rocky Mount, Va., became a private club but the owner said the decision had nothing to do with the law. A tavern in Norfolk turned private more than a year ago to

Railroad Buffs Keep 'Iron Horse' From Pasture

Most old steam engines go to the scrap yard, but some have gone to the Valhalla of the Iron Horse — trackage where steam still reigns supreme, where parents who remember the lure of the locomotive come to savor the past, and where children have their dreams stoked forevermore with knowledge of the huffnpuffers.

Two fine examples in eastern United States:

The Strasburg Rail Road, founded in 1832, operating out of Strasburg, Pa., the only standard gauge U.S. line offering a regular, almost-year-round schedule of passenger trains pulled by steamers. Passengers travel through the Pennsylvania Dutch countryside in venerable coach equipment dating back as far as 1875.

Last operating narrow gauge east of the Mississippi, the East Broad Top Railroad chuffs a June-through-October passenger schedule out of Rockhill Furnace, near Orbisonia, Pa.

The urge to return to yesteryear and a more leisurely, less hurried time has stretched the twilight of the iron horse into a long, golden dusk that shows no sign of fading into night.

Columbiana Club To Install Monday

GREENFORD — Sixty five members and guests of the Ruritan Club met Tuesday at the school. James Justice, fair chairman, discussed plans for the fair. A ticket booth has been made and each member is to furnish two gallons of apple sauce for the fair. Members will meet at the school at 6 p.m. Aug. 31 to go to the fairgrounds and work on their concession stand.

A coverdish supper at 6:30 p.m. Sept. 18 will be held at Green Township Coy Memorial Park for the Ruritans and their families.

Next regular meeting will be ministers night at 7 p.m. Sept. 24 at the school. Supper was served by the Boy Scouts.

Ohio Businesses Lose Ground In Investment Race

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio manufacturers, who have led the nation for some years in investing in new plants and equipment, are losing ground to other states, a business expert says.

The report came from Dr. James C. Yocum, director of Ohio State University's Bureau of Business Research.

Yocum based his analysis on 10-year totals of manufacturers' capital expenditures on data from the 1962 Annual Survey of Manufacturers published by the U.S. Census Bureau.

Three successive 10-year periods were covered—1951-60, 1962-61 and 1963-1962.

"Ohio in each of the 10-year spans had the largest dollar volume of manufacturers' new capital expenditures and the largest percentage of the 48-state total," Yocum. Figures for Alaska and Hawaii were not included in the study.

"It is significant, though," Yocum said, "that Ohio's leadership was declining relatively."

He said the state fell from 9 per cent to 8.6 per cent during the three periods.

Yocum added: "The 10-year dollar expenditure showed no growth but was at $8.3 billion in each of the periods."

He said other states in the top 15 losing ground are Pennsylvania, Michigan, Texas and Indiana.

Illinois, New York, Wisconsin and Connecticut held steady, Yocum said.

California, New Jersey, Massachusetts, North Carolina, Tennessee and Missouri gained.

Yocum said the 15 leading industrial states "still account for nearly three quarters of the total 48-state manufacturing capital expenditure."

On the Bookshelves

New Books at Salem Public Library

The following fiction titles have been added to the library since the last listing - A MOMENT IN TIME by Bates; THE FIELD OF NOON by Burford; SIX WHO RAN by Chabier; AN-NIVERSARY by Corbett; STORIES by Cozzens; LAB SECRETARY by Edwards; KATE WILDER, R. N. by Gilmer; THE SHAKE-UP by James; TWO MEN IN TWENTY by Proctor; LONELY VALLEY by Kennedy; THE ROPE BRIDGE by Leslie; THE TOMORROW-TAMER by Laurence; THE RETURN OF JENNIFER by Upshaw; TRACKER by Vance; PATH OF DALLIANCE by Waugh and THE ANIMAL CATCHERS by Wilcock.

NON-FICTION

ESP: A PERSONAL MEMOIR by Rosalind Heywood. Mrs. Heywood takes a very sensible and forthright attitude toward her own experiences, which make them more readily acceptable to the average reader. She relates her experiences by classification rather than chronologically and altogether does a good job of it.

GUIDING YOUR DAUGHTER TO CONFIDENT WOMANHOOD by Goodrich C. Schaeffer, M.D. This is a frank and candid book written especially for mothers to help them provide sound advice to their daughters - and to bring present-day conditions to their attention.

THE RADICAL TRADITION by R. H. Tawney. A collection from the papers of this English Democratic Socialist who was a teacher in the University of London for a number of years, and was also a member of the British Parliament.

NEW SCIENCE OF ECONOMICS by George Soule. A second edition of the author's treatise which explains the difference between classic and modern economics and describes how research is used in the modern science.

DANGEROUS PROPERTIES OF INDUSTRIAL MATERIALS by N. Irving Sax. A few of the many subjects treated are - Respiratory protection, air pollution, radiation hazards, reactor safeguards, allergic disease; food additives. An alphabetic list of general chemicals and their effects on those working with them is also easily used and valuable.

VOICES ON THE RIVER by Walter Havighurst. Prof. Havighurst presents a whole panorama of people and boats from the past as they plied their way up and down the great river which, with all its tributaries, drains over half the American Continent.

CHASTIZE ME WITH SCORPIONS by Laura Rhodes and Lucy Freeman. The author tells of her treatment and cure in a mental hospital and of the things which led up to her needing the treatment in the first place. It is well done.

GREEN MEDICINE by Margaret B. Krieg. A thoroughly interesting book about modern medicine which is derived from plants. It covers not only work being done in this country, but in many other areas as well.

FAMOUS VETERAN CARS OF THE WORLD by Anthony Davis. Another book on old cars is always needed - this one is by an English author and so has a little different outlook than the American ones.

COOKING FOR ONE by Elihu Parker. This should be a boon to the many people who live alone and may not yet have learned to adjust the average family recipe to their particular needs, or to shop sensibly for one person.

BUSINESS DECISIONS THAT CHANGED OUR LIVES edited by Sidney Furst and Milton Sherman. The story of seventeen items now common in everyday living as told by a person intimately connected with their manufacture is interesting for anyone to read as well as being a good addition to the literature on customer relations.

THE ROAR OF THE CROWD by W. R. Burnett. Especially for the person who is a real baseball fan, this has a lot of good sense type information scattered in between witty short stories about players, playing and games.

THE LITTLE BOOK OF BELL by Eric Hatch. One of the men who started the movement to have many bells rung on July 4th tells the story of bells - how they began and a small section about various types and how they are and have been rung.

THE NATIVES ARE ALWAYS RESTLESS by Gerald Raftery. This author is a school librarian who approaches his job with a sense of humor almost matched by his cynicism, if one can judge by a sentence snatched here and there from context.

THE FORTRESS THAT NEVER WAS by Rodney G. Minott. This is a report of the capture, during World War II, of the area around Munich, Salzburg and Innsbruck in which there had been persistent reports that Hitler had constructed a vast secret fortress. The report turned out to be false, but much energy was spent in surrounding the area.

THE SEAFARERS by Robert Carse. This is an account of the Americans who built and sailed innumerable ships during the period between 1620 and 1820.

ARGENTINA by James R. Scobie. This is not a political but a social and economic history of this South American country, and is the first volume of a new series to be called "Latin American Histories" to be edited by Prof. Scobie.

DURER AND HIS WORLD by Max Steck. The author of this account of the famous artist from Nuremberg is recognized internationally as an authority on him. His account is interesting and profusely illustrated in black-and-white.

THE LIFE OF LENIN by Louis Fischer. This is a major biography and few Americans would be as well qualified to write it as Louis Fischer, for he has either lived in or made frequent visits to Russia since 1922.

Reference: THE HARPER ENCYCLOPEDIA OF SCIENCE. A four-volume popular set for quick reference or a great many scientific subjects, this should be very helpful to students and others needing basic information.

THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF ENGINEERING MATERIALS AND PROCESSES. Each of the articles in this one-volume encyclopedia is written by a specialist actively working in the field. Each article averages 2500 words.

ALLIANCE - Approximately 30 Mount Union College seniors will take part in history Sunday as they form the first summer graduating class at the College.

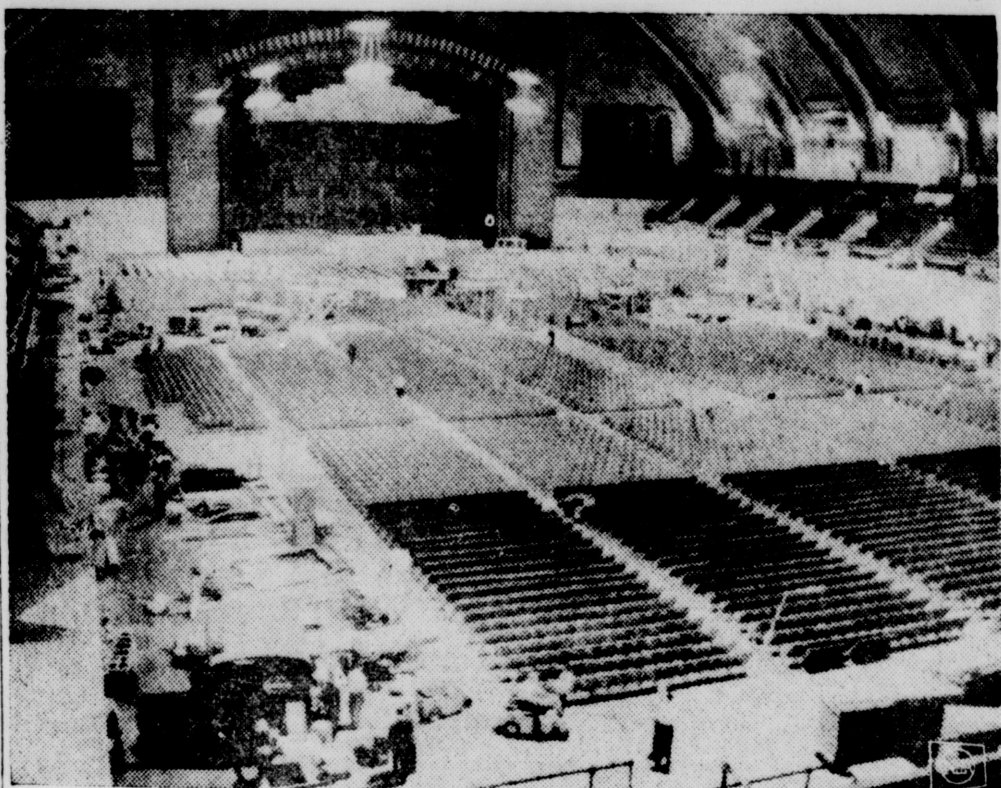

Graduating will be those students who have completed their work during the summer session.

Included will be recipients of bachelor of arts, music education, science, and science in elementary education.

Mount Union President Carl C. Bracy will deliver brief remarks at the 3 p.m. ceremony at Rodman Playhouse on campus.

Founded in 1846, Mount Union College became one of the first to have summer school - actually a fourth term in the school year - in 1870 and has held a summer session every year since.

Contrary to popular notion, lightning does not zigzag but curves, twists, meanders and branches like limbs on a tree. It does not travel downward in a series of sharp, short angles.

IT WILL BE DEM-PACKED - Cavernous size of Atlantic City's Convention Hall is emphasized in this photo, where workmen are finishing up preparations for the 1964 Democratic Convention. The amphitheater, called the largest "room" in the world, would easily hold New York's Madison Square Garden. Its main auditorium seats 45,000 persons. When the Democrats gather, they will include 5,368 official convention-goers, plus uncounted staffers, families and spectators.

Trick In S. Viet Nam

This time it's 20 years and $13,000 for James R. Hoffa.

With due credit to the ingenuity and perseverance of the legalists who watch out for him, his countrymen will withhold judgment on his two convictions. They will not believe he can be put in jail until they see him there.

Until his rights of appeal have been unsuccessful, it is still a good bet this remarkable man who never has been caught short in a legal tangle will keep his record intact. His lawyers have been unsurpassed.

Nevertheless, time is running out for Mr. Hoffa — not the 28 years he has accumulated in sentences to date but the nearly seven years he has been president of the Teamsters Union as successor to Dave Beck, who was forced out of office in October 1957 by an accumulation of suspicions and allegations.

THE BECK regime ended with the nominal consent of its leader, who subsequently was to go to jail. But the fact is Beck had to make room for his ambitious young associate.

The Select Senate Committee on Improper Labor-Management Activities already had published a 48-count indictment against Mr. Hoffa when he stepped up to the presidency of the Teamsters. It promptly added 34 more.

These were the things that caused the Senate committee's counsel, Robert F. Kennedy, to start his drive to hold Mr. Hoffa accountable for his deeds when Mr. Kennedy became attorney general of the United States.

But the thing that could force a final accounting as far as Mr. Hoffa's position in the union is concerned is the union itself.

ASIDE FROM the Beck-Hoffa leadership at the top, the Teamsters Union is different from other unions only in the fact it is the largest of all unions.

Its members do not uphold Mr. Hoffa any more staunchly than they upheld Mr. Beck, when his time ran out in 1957. It has been a something-for-something arrangement. The Hoffa leadership obtained good wages and benefits for the members, who in turn supported the Hoffa organization. But what has James R. Hoffa done for the members lately? Why should he be supported now?

A jury found him guilty on July 25 of a scheme to defraud the union pension fund. A judge has sentenced him to 20 years in prison and $13,000 in fines.

On March 8 he was sentenced to eight years in prison and $10,000 in fines for attempting to influence a federal jury. Time is running out.

No More 'Cornstalk Brigade'

Robert Taft Jr. disposed of a misconception in hearings of a House of Representatives committee the other day.

Speaking as a former member of the Ohio General Assembly, he said there is no such thing any more as a "Cornstalk brigade" in this state.

Rural counties, he explained, now are represented generally by lawyers and businessmen. And, of course, it goes without saying that some of these are the outstanding leaders of the Ohio General Assembly.

They are as objective about state problems as representatives and senators from mere typical counties and districts. The point is debatable, but many observers of the Ohio Legislature think legislators from rural areas are more objective about state problems on the whole than their counterparts from metropolitan areas.

It isn't a "cornstalk brigade" that threatens legislative balance in the state as much as a pressure-bloc brigade. The members of this brigade stand in perpetual awe of voters in the mass because that is the only way they ever think of them—ethnic groups, racial groups, labor union groups, income groups, religious groups.

Even in its halcyon days, which happened a long time ago, the rural bloc in Ohio was no match for today's power-politics specialists. The reason for being currently concerned about bringing legislative apportionment up to date isn't domination by rural influence but denial of fair representation to urban voters.

It's a matter of principle, not legislative practice.

Never Again

By Truman Twill

One day next spring, if all had gone well, there would have been a surprise telephone call from a most interesting man I used to eat breakfast with.

The call would have come with no advance warning. It would have informed me that if I had nothing scheduled it would be my friend's pleasure to have me joining him for lunch at a restaurant in our town.

And I, surprised and pleased, would have dropped whatever I had lined up and joined him for lunch—his breakfast, my lunch. When he came to town, he slept late and ate breakfast at noon after a warmup at the bar.

He would talk long over the food and the drink. He would do most of the talking, though, because he had things to talk about. I would do the listening, because from him I learned about a world I will never see.

HE WAS a seafarer. In World War I he served in the U.S. Navy, and the sting of salt spray coaxed him back after World War II. He became chief engineer on a superfreighter plying between U.S. Atlantic ports and the African Gold Coast.

Occasionally he sent me bundles of newspapers from faraway places. And always on his visits he told me about his long days at sea, with nothing to do but keep an eye on the ship's complete machinery and read, unless something broke down. It was his duty then to get it fixed in a hurry. He was paid for what he knew how to do. He was proud of his know-how.

I met him when both of us were indulging an avocational interest in amateur theatricals. This was between his seagoings, when he was working on land as an operating engineer. It was a Mutt and Jeff friendship—he large and fierce in outward appearance, I skinny and innocuous, he a roamer of the earth, I a desk-chained landlubber.

That wasn't the only disparity. He was a voracious reader with a strong inclination toward intellectualism, though in his daily living he was a two-fisted pragmatist who had stood high in union organization. I was a casual reader who never aspired to do more than hang around the outside fringes of intellectualism and catch an occasional word I could understand.

IT WAS a strange friendship, renewed only at the times he came inland to visit for a few days before going back to sea. I never knew and don't know now why he liked me, but I liked him because I was fascinated by the kind of man he was—the kind of man I'm not.

It was the attraction of opposites. I have learned there will be no surprise telephone call next spring. My friend Ted Wagner died in Brooklyn without any weakening illness, without suffering and without time to think about it. His ashes were scattered at sea, in accordance with his wish. He was due to go to sea the day after his unexpected death.

Never again will the kind of man I am be eating breakfast at lunchtime with the kind of man I'm not.

Great Depression In Italy

By VICTOR RIESEL

MILAN, ITALY

La Dolce Vita — the sweet life — soon will be merely a movie playing in the suburbs. Life is souring for many Italians.

Victor Riesel

Money is growing tighter all along the line. There are at least 10,000 unsold Lancia cars and more than 30,000 Alfa Romeo sports models clogging the auto salesrooms and parking lots. More than 600,000 workers are seeking jobs. Industrialists here are laying off technicians and executives whom they once were paying as much as $1,500 a month — a fortune here. Money from the millionaires and the little businessmen is flowing over the border into Swiss banks in a search for safer investments.

If life becomes bitter by October and the jobless jump to a million or more and the "Italian Miracle" bursts, the depression will become a political issue, not only in Italy but in the battle between Barry Goldwater and Lyndon Johnson as well.

The Italian crisis will have repercussions in the United States because the Italian Communist party — at Moscow's direction will attempt to topple the government as it weakens.

The effort will be obvious, noisy and perhaps bloody. The party will use tripartite, chain-reaction and hit-and-run strikes in a national drive to raise wages.

All economists are convinced that only a wage freeze can save Italy from bankruptcy and wild inflation. But the Communist party will be relentless.

THE DRIVE of the Italian Communist party under the leadership of Palmiro Togliatti, one of Chairman Khrushchev's closest collaborators, will soon be interpreted as a struggle between Moscow and Rome. This will embarrass President Lyndon Johnson and his close friend and frequent adviser on foreign policy, Sen. J. William Fulbright. They are devoted to extending the areas of peaceful co-existence with the Soviet Union.

The Johnson administration will be faced with the need to pour additional millions of dollars into the Italian economy while the pro-Soviet Italian Communist party, the largest and most powerful in the West, uses its mighty labor federation, the C.G.I.L. (Chigeli), to undermine the very same Italian economy.

This the Chigeli will attempt by throwing its labor legions against the government — a process which Italian political leaders call "instrumentalization" — or the use of unions as the instruments of revolution.

The Communist party is in a position to launch such an attack because it controls millions of workers in big railroad, chemical, farm, port, transport, post and telegraph, government bureau and building and construction unions, just to mention a few.

THERE HAVE been rehearsals for crippling strikes aimed at pressuring the government to desert its wage restraint policy. Last February the chemical workers were called out. In April, three million farm hands were told to stop work for two days. Then a government workers' strike was called.

Last month, for example, the Communist-controlled railroad workers struck four times. On July 19 they disrupted traffic at considerable cost by calling three two-hour strikes, disrupting freight trains, inconveniencing summer tourists on whom this fine land depends for considerable foreign currency. And hard currency is highly valuable to a country which ran over a billion dollars behind in its balance of payments last year.

Ten days later, the same union again called out its members who work for the state railways.

They disrupted traffic for 11 hours this time at a cost of hundreds of thousands of dollars. On what pretext? They struck when the government was forced to delay adoption of new summer schedules because of a technicality.

These schedules would have given the workers a few cents more a day in pay. For such a flimsy reason the Communists shut down most of the nation's railroads for almost half a day.

BUT THE TRULY tough, disciplined Communist cadres are in the building and construction unions. These are being hard hit. The government has had to crack down on easy credit. It's difficult now to borrow money. So there are less funds for construction of those attractive, terrace-laden apartment houses which decorate the suburbs of Rome, Milan and other big cities.

With fewer and fewer housing "starts," there is greater and greater unemployment among the building and construction workers. They are accustomed to street demonstrations. Last October the Communist party summoned 10,000 of them into a Rome piazza, for example, and told them that the employers did not have their interests at heart. Party specialists armed with iron bars ripped up cobblestones. Soon bricks were flying. The crowds roared and rioted. This was a warning and a rehearsal.

THERE ARE other such party followers who are willing to go into the streets. Scores of thousands of these are in this city, up from the south — the boot — of Italy. They have no roots. They came here to earn a good living. They did. Now they slowly are being let out as the "miracle" of Italian prosperity oozes out.

The party is preparing to use them. Unless another miracle develops, there will be tumult in Italy this fall.

There will be no doubt that the Soviets will be attempting to destroy a government friendly to us. This will hardly be in the spirit of coexistence. It will become an international issue — unless Mr. Khrushchev calls off his apparatus.

Keating's Position on Presidency

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Politics sometimes is defined as the art of carrying water on both shoulders. Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., has just given an example of how it is possible for him to announce his candidacy for reelection as a Republican and still remain silent on whom he favors for president of the United States — if anybody.

David Lawrence

Mr. Keating was frank and sincere in stating that, on issues previously before the Senate, his views and those of Sen. Goldwater have differed considerably and that the people of New York State are well aware of these differences. He added: "I seriously doubt that any voter in New York would be impressed by any lip service I might give Sen. Goldwater or he might give me in the name of party unity."

Certainly the voters do not expect Sen. Keating to surrender his convictions on any issue, but they do have a right to know whether he intends to cast his ballot for the Republican presidential nominee.

If Mr. Keating really intends to vote for Sen. Goldwater, after all, many voters will ask what his objection is to saying so publicly.

In the statement issued by Mr. Keating on Tuesday announcing his candidacy, he said that he believes in the two-party system and that he has "never thought of bolting the Republican party."

FROM THIS it might be inferred that Mr. Keating wants to receive all the benefits to be derived from being named as the Republican party's nominee for the U. S. Senate from New York State without being burdened with any of the alleged disadvantages associated with the candidacy of the man at the top of the ticket.

The dilemma is not new.

Many a member of Congress has faced it before. The Southern Democrats have often voted against the wishes of a Democratic president, and so have Republicans taken issue with a president from their own party.

Only a few days ago, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., who originally came to the Senate and was reelected for one term as a Republican but has been elected and served for the last two terms as a Democrat, was one of the two senators, both Democrats, who voted against the resolution which President Johnson sponsored and which authorized armed action in Southeast Asia in retaliation against attacks on our naval vessels.

Many Southern Democrats, moreover, didn't vote for the civil rights law recently enacted.

IT, THEREFORE, IS not unusual for members of either house of Congress to express dissent from their own party's leaders. Such voters are defended as reflecting the desires of the constituencies back home.

But the respective names and insignia of the Republican and the Democratic party appear officially on the ballot in an election. The candidates listed thereunder must have some association with the party, or they are not legally permitted to run in that column. The question is whether the Republican state convention in New York, in designating Mr. Keating as the United States Senate, can consistently do so if he declines to say whether he will vote for the man who was nominated by a majority of the delegates to the Republican national convention held last month in San Francisco.

There is no senatorial primary in New York State, so the state convention will have to resolve this question.

THE CONCRETE issue has been brought to a head by Rep. Paul A. Fino, a member of the House for the last 12 years and Republican committee chairman of the Bronx. He has just announced that he will seek the nomination for the Senate at the New York State Republican convention later this month, and says that Mr. Keating's statement of Tuesday is "tantamount to bolting the Republican party."

Will the New York State convention ask Keating to say whether he intends to vote for the national nominee of his party? If the convention doesn't do so, would the nomination of Mr. Keating by the convention be interpreted nationally to mean a virtual repudiation of Sen. Goldwater as the Republican presidential candidate?

Sen. Keating has a right to confine himself in his campaign to specific issues on which he may feel the people of New York State are entitled to know his views before making their choice.

AS THE MATTER stands today, however, Mr. Keating has left his own position up in the air. He may cast his ballot for the Republican presidential nominee or refrain from voting for either candidate.

If Mr. Keating becomes his party's nominee and his name is to appear in the Republican column on the ballot, lots of voters will insist on knowing beforehand whom he favors for the presidency in the November election. Otherwise, many Republicans may also refrain from voting for either Mr. Keating or Bobby Kennedy, if the latter is the Democratic candidate in New York State.

History Today

Today is Thursday, Aug. 20, the 233rd day of 1964. There are 133 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1783, Gen. Anthony Wayne defeated a large Indian force along the Maumee River, near what is now Toledo, Ohio. Echoes of the victory went overseas when John Jay was negotiating the treaty which brought the final withdrawal of the British from the Northwest Territory.

On this date: In 1833, the 23rd president, Benjamin Harrison, was born near North Bend, Ohio.

Five years ago—Three days of earthquakes ended in the West Yellowstone area of Montana, leaving 28 killed and 60 injured.

Rosy Soviet Picture

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency Tass often presents a rosy picture of the way things are going in the Soviet Union, while emphasizing troubles the rest of the world is having.

Although papers here frequently publish stories about Soviet crime, corruption, bureaucratic inefficiency and other domestic problems, such items seldom find their way onto the Tass wire.

On a typical day, for example, Moscow daily papers, published series on the following subjects:

Soda vending machines that don't work.

Lax controls that encourage embezzlers of state property.

Complaints about sloppy press coverage of new technical developments.

Factory directors who force workers to put in overtime without pay in order to fulfill monthly plan targets.

A young man convicted on charges of illegally selling study aids to students preparing for university entrance exams.

Poor organization of working hours of Soviet army officers.

Criticism of army officers' behavior.

And two stinging anti-alcoholism pieces.

None of the stories appeared on the Tass domestic or foreign wires.

However, similar items from the West are eagerly passed censorship screen to make up through the agency's two-way bulk of its foreign news coverage.

The government-run news agency also gives heavy play to Western labor strikes, accidents and disasters and political troubles.

Tass fulfills its assigned role as chronicler of the Soviet march to communism by churning out a seemingly endless stream of glowing reports of new economic and social achievements.

Favorable comment about the Soviet Union by foreign visitors and tourists is transmitted in bulk quantities on the overseas wire to foreign subscribers.

One of Tass' main functions is laying down the latest Kremlin line on important policy matters in the form of Tass statements, commentaries, and party-government documents.

Tass, therefore, is carefully studied abroad for switches or modifications of Soviet policies.

The agency now is engaged in an all-out assault on the Communist Chinese, devoting several articles daily to polemical attacks on Peking.

It also appears to be attempting to counter Chinese and Western charges of Soviet imperialism and colonialism with a spate of pieces intended to impress foreigners with the progress made in the central Asian republics.

In recent years, Tass' directors have made determined efforts to streamline their cumbersome operation in the fashion of the major Western news agencies.

Major foreign news breaks are being reported on the Tass wire with considerably less delay than formerly. These reports usually are short and factual and without comment.

Later, when the Kremlin policy line has been laid down, expanded stories containing the official Soviet viewpoint are moved on the wire.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly, as you teach and admonish one another in all wisdom, and as you sing psalms and hymns and spiritual songs with thankfulness in your hearts to God.—Colossians 3:16.

Just as all things upon earth represent and image forth all the realities of another world, so the Bible is one mighty representative of the whole spiritual life of humanity.—Helen Keller.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Mushroom Hunters Beware!

Along with football practice and gradual shortening of the days comes an outdoor sport indulged in by braver souls than I am — collecting mushrooms.

Each year brings its reports of mushroom poisoning so don't let an "honest mistake" shorten your days. There are more than 3,000 species of this plant, and it would take a real expert to be familiar with half of them.

To complicate matters, poisonous and nonpoisonous varieties are often deceptively similar. This is especially apt to fool you if you are gathering mushrooms in a part of the country that is new to you. Other reasons why mushroom poisoning continues to occur are that the poisonous varieties do not have an unpleasant taste or smell and their color is not a reliable key to identifying "brand X." Even in the laboratory there is no simple test that will reveal all the poisons found in these plants.

SOME PERSONS become ill after eating mushrooms when no one else in the party is affected. This is due to allergy and is not to be considered true mushroom poisoning.

The latter may be rapid or delayed. The rapid type usually occurs within two hours of eating the mushrooms and is caused by the poison, muscarine. The result is severe abdominal pain, violent diarrhea, salivation, sweating and shortness of breath. Atropine, if given promptly, will prevent death.

Delayed poisoning does not occur until 6 to 15 hours after the mushrooms are eaten. The symptoms are similar to those of the acute poisoning. Hospitalization and the use of the artificial kidney are required to overcome this disease.

To be perfectly safe you should eat only mushrooms grown for the market or raised in your basement from known edible stock. If you insist on combining mushroom gathering with a trapeze in the woods, you should study a good guide book carefully. Bold mushroom eaters rarely get to be old mushroom eaters. Some of the volumes which mushroom hunters rely upon:

"Common Edible Mushrooms," by Clyde M. Christensen. "Field Book of Common Mushrooms," by William Sturgis. "The Mushroom Hunter's Field Guide," by Alexander H. Smith.

Q—Would taking one diuretic pill daily for 14 days before each menstrual period have a bad effect on the kidneys? It is taken to prevent painful swelling in my fingers, wrists, and knees which disappears as soon as I start to menstruate.

A—This sounds like a perfectly safe procedure, especially if you check with your doctor at regular intervals.

MRS. CHARLES PAXSON was awarded the traveling prize when members of the Gabbettes Bingo Club met Monday night at the home of Mrs. Edward Manning of W. Pershing St.

Other prizes were won by Mrs. William Michaels, Mrs. Earl Taylor and Mrs. Norman Firestone.

The next meeting will be Aug. 31 with Mrs. Paxson in her home on N. Ellsworth Ave.

HUSBANDS AND CHILDREN of members of the Salem Amvets Auxiliary were guests when the organization held their annual picnic Tuesday night at Centennial Park.

After the meal Mrs. Ray Wright presided at a short business session and announced that Mrs. Mike Oana and Mrs. Torch Nedelka will represent the local auxiliary at the national convention Aug. 25-30 in Philadelphia, Pa., and that Mrs. Oana and Mrs. Nedelka will be listed in the 4th edition of "Who's Who of American Women," in recognition of their work in the interests of veterans organizations.

SALEM SENIOR CITIZENS Club will hold its monthly business meeting at Lake Newport, Mill Creek Park in Youngstown Wednesday. The group will leave the Memorial Bldg. at 10:30 a.m. Each member will take a box lunch and his own beverage.

August birthdays will be recognized with a birthday cake provided, as usual, by the Gold Star Auxiliary of the VFW. A brief business session will be held with Homer Hilliard presiding and the rest of the afternoon will be spent by boat rides on the lake paddle boat, which has been reserved for the group, fishing or relaxing.

It is necessary for those planning to go on this trip to call the Memorial Building, Mr. Hilliard or Mrs. Carrie Mellinger so enough transportation will be available. This information must be in not later than Monday.

MRS. LEE HEINEMAN was elected president at the 69th annual Whinnery family reunion Sunday at Centennial park.

A picnic dinner at noon was enjoyed by the 90 in attendance with Mrs. Walter Crew, 88, of Hiram, recognized as the oldest attending member, and seven-week-old Marsha Poole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Poole of Salem, the youngest.

Other officers elected were:

Vice president, Hickie Gidley; secretary, Alice Whinnery, and treasurer, Glenn Whinnery.

William and Mayo Johnson who have recently returned from a trip to Ireland, reported they looked up the family records in the Bureau of Public Records at Belfast, and spoke of various items registered there concerning the Whinnery family.

Those present were from Huntington and Marion, Ind., Washington, D. C., Cincinnati, Dayton, Medina, Hiram, Adena and surrounding towns.

The committee in charge of tables for the event were Mr. and Mrs. Gidley, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roth.

SEVENTY-THREE PERSONS attended the annual Niswonger reunion Sunday at Silver Park in Alliance. A basket dinner was served.

Mrs. Allen Westover, president, conducted the business session when the following officers were elected: Roger Kelch of Lisbon, president; Alvin Brown of RD, Hanover, vice president; and Mrs. Donald Wright of Summitville, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. James R. Gause of RD, Lisbon, distributed a family history beginning with the arrival of Jacob and Rachel Niswonger from Germany in 1802.

Next reunion will be the third Sunday of August in 1965.

MEMBERS OF SAL-CO chapter, National Secretaries Assn. will have their annual picnic Monday at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Miss Rosina Schell of the New Garden Road.

Miss Schell and Mrs. Ernest Baker are the committee in charge of arrangements. Reservations should be made by Friday with Miss Sandra Centofanti. Those attending are requested to bring table service. The meal will be catered.

REV. PHILIP CARL was chairman in charge of arrangements when members of the Goshen Center Ruritan Club entertained their families at a picnic Monday night at Coy Memorial Park near Greenford.

One hundred per cent attendance was recorded.

Accorded solos were played by Mrs. Carl and games and contests enjoyed.

The next meeting will be a supper Sept. 21 at 7:30 in Bunker Hill Church with Ivan Snyder and William Heineman in charge of the program.

The board of directors will meet Sept. 2 at 8:30 p.m. with Jesse Martig of Route 534.

Friends to Hear Ten Missionaries

Freda Farmer

Ella Hutson

Two missionaries just returned from the Far East will be among the speakers at the Ohio Yearly Meeting of Friends next week at Damascus.

One, Miss Freda Farmer of Mount Vernon, who returned to Ohio in July after completing two terms in missionary work in Formosa (Taiwan) will be engaged in deputation work during her one-year furlough.

Miss Farmer first went to the island in 1954. The Wesleyan Methodist Taiwanese congregations merged with the churches of Ohio Yearly Meeting of Friends in 1959. Miss Farmer has worked in cooperation with Friends missionaries with Wesleyan salary support.

Prior to her assignment abroad, Miss Farmer attended Cleveland Bible College and Marion (Ind.) College.

MISS ELLA RUTH HUTSON, native of Los Animos, Colo., and pioneer Friends missionary in Formosa, returned from the Orient in July after spending 12 years in Taiwan.

Miss Hutson, a graduate of Cleveland Bible College, later worked on the college staff before going to China for missionary service. Because of the uprising of the Communists, Miss Hutson's term on the mainland of China was short. Miss Hutson and Rev. and Mrs. Charles Matti of Beloit, were the last three missionaries of Ohio Yearly Meeting of Friends to leave the mainland of China.

For three years Miss Hutson worked for the Friends Home, Columbus.

Miss Hutson and the Mattis, now retired, made up the spearhead party of missionaries to enter Formosa for OYM in 1952.

Currently the Friends have 19 mission churches in Formosa.

Engagement Told

Miss Eileen Burkey

Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Burkey of RD 1, North Benton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Eileen Jane, to Ralph E. Simmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Simmons of North Benton.

Hints From

Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: For people who have trouble with printers ink (from magazines and newspapers) rubbing off on plastic tablecloths . . . apply cleansing cream as you would to your face to remove makeup. Rub with facial tissue or paper towel before wiping the plastic tablecloth with a damp cloth. Also, when ready to discard a plastic table cover, remove the felt lining by pulling it away from the plastic. Wash the felt lining and you have a nice soft material for polishing, etc.

JEAN.

DEAR HELOISE: This is a hint for those who make jelly and use paraffin wax to seal it. Put the wax in a clean, empty can (a soup can is handy) and set the can in a pan of boiling water.

No more pans to scrub . . . just throw away the can when you are finished.

MARLENE.

DEAR HELOISE: I just discovered that good old soap-filled pads take all of the coffee and tea stains from my plastic cups. I hardly even rubbed them.

N.

Ladies, I caution now, tomorrow, and always, NEVER use any type of steel wool or household bleach on plastic cups! Every manufacturer of plastic tells me that bleach ruins the finish, steel wool takes off the finish.

We all agree that it will get the plastic clean momentarily, but do you know what you are doing?

You are taking off that coat of film which you can never buy new cups for the price of having this done professionally. . . .

The only thing that is recommended by the manufacturers of plastic dinnerware is: One may take a soft cloth, dampen it, dip it in BAKING SODA, and scour the cup. This

If you will read all of Joe Blow's directions (the Joe Blow who manufactures each item), never, never, never has he said to use soap-filled pads for cleaning these plastic cups! And, you'd better believe it that he's got his reasons. . . .

The reason I wrote this caution was to help you save your money and your nice plastic ware.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I found that a plastic bowl cover makes a terrific bath cap for my little girl.

These plastic bowl covers usually come four sizes to a package and are inexpensive.

The larger size is perfect for Mommy, and the smaller size is just right for my little gal.

MRS. JEAN FRIES.

DEAR HELOISE: Here's a trick for those who have trouble cleaning floor sitters. I learned it from my Home Economics teacher:

Just rinse the sifter under COLD water, then pop it into the oven (moderately warm) and in a few minutes, take the sifter out and it will be as good as new. Result . . . no rust.

READER.

DEAR HELOISE: I keep a piece of sandpaper in the kitchen to help open tight caps on bottles and jars.

I find it quicker and neater than using a damp cloth or inverting the container in hot water.

MRS. G.M.J.

DEAR HELOISE: When I broil a piece of meat, I never seem to cut into the edges deep enough with a knife to keep the ends of the meat from turning up and spattering.

Now I simply cut the edges with a long pair of scissors. This can be done with one hand and in record time.

MRS. ED OBRIEN.

It has always remained a matter of conjecture as to where George and Martha Washington were married as there is no official record as to whether it was at the White House, at the home of the widow Custis or at nearby Saint Peter's Church.

'The Addams Family' New Type of Comedy

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "There will not be a single problem on our series that could not be handled by 'The Donna Reed Show,'" said Al Lewis in the earnest, intent manner that endeared him to "Car 54" audiences when he played officer Schnauzer.

But Donna Reed and her sunny, suburban family seemed far away. Lewis' face was covered with a thick layer of mauve greasepaint, his lips were an eerie combination of black and red paste. Behind him as he spoke, his old "Car 54" playmate, Fred Gwynne, totally unrecognizable in a foam rubber and mauve Frankenstein's monster make-up, lay strapped grotesquely in a torture chair in a cobweb-filled dungeon beside a mad scientist's work table where noxious brews bubbled and steamed.

"See?" said Lewis happily. "He's strapped down to keep from eating because he's gone on a crash diet so he can get back into his old uniform for a reunion with his wartime buddies. Later he breaks loose and eats the neighbor's Thanksgiving dinner."

That, kiddies, is the way it's going to be with "The Munsters," CBS' comedy series this fall. The basic device is that the Munster family consists of Gwynne's Frankenstein type; a wife who looks like a vampire; Grandpa Lewis, a member of the Dracula family; a weird, mauve-faced son—and a pretty blonde niece, a source of worry because, to them, she looks abnormal.

A few miles away, in another studio, Carlyn Jones in a long black wig and slinky vampire-type dress, was proudly showing to her adoring television husband — John Astin, made up to look like Peter Lorre at his evil best — a sweater with three sleeves which she was knitting. Behind her were a conservatory, where she grows poisonous and man-eating plants, and a display of her husband's toy trains. His hobby is setting up miniature train wrecks.

That, lovers of laughter, is the way it's going to be with "The Addams Family," ABC's comedy series, his fall.

"I have long felt that television comedy needed a new look," said creator and executive producer David Levy, who worked with cartoonist Charles Addams to convert his diabolical family from the pages of the New Yorker magazine to the small screen.

"The Munsters," it seems, will be a broader, more obvious spoof on the horror film. Grandpa's easy chair is an electric chair; the family phone booth is an upended, upholstered casket; the sun will shine on all the neat houses in their block, but it will always be stormy around the crumbling Victorian monstrosity where the Munsters live.

Will Find Out If Union Pay's Legal Fees

Teamsters To Get Report on Hoffa

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Teamsters Union's executive council hears a report today on the question of who pays President James R. Hoffa's legal expense.

Hoffa said Wednesday the report will be submitted by attorneys to the 15-man board at its quarterly meeting here.

Hoffa agreed several weeks ago to stop using union money to pay his lawyers. Since then he has been convicted in Chicago of conspiring to defraud the union's pension fund in a $20-million loan scheme.

Hoffa was sentenced to four terms of five years each to run concurrently.

In Washington Wednesday, nearly 500 union members from nine locals filed a petition asking to join a suit seeking recovery of all union funds spent defending Hoffa and other union officials tried on criminal charges. The amount is estimated at $3 million.

The suit, filed several months ago by six members of Local 107 in Philadelphia, charges a violation of a federal labor law provision which requires that union funds be spent solely for the benefit of the union.

Hoffa hotly denied there was a movement to replace him as president.

"There's no question in my mind about who's running the union," Hoffa said. "There's no revolt and there will be no revolt."

$580,000 Suit Filed In Traffic Deaths of 5

LISBON — Five suits totaling $580,000 for unlawful deaths in the truck - auto accident Oct. 2, 1963, on Route 7, seven miles north-west of East Liverpool, at Williamsport Hill, was filed in common pleas court Wednesday by the administrators of estates of the deceased.

The Humes Transfer Company, Seubenville, and Brooke Inc., Weirton, W. Va., are named defendants in the suits.

Filing the court actions were: Walter B. Lewis and George B. Lewis, East Palestine RD 1, administrators of estate of Mrs. Judith Ann Lewis, 19, driver of an auto in which she and four other persons were killed. They ask $250,000.

Jack H. and Betty Knight, father and mother of Teroy Knight, 7, and Nancy Jean Knight, 11, asks $75,000 for each child.

Clair M. and Sylvia Slagle, Negley RD 1, father and mother of Louise M. Slagle, 15, ask $90,000.

Mrs. Lewis, Misses Knight and Slagle were riding in the front seat of the car and the Knight children were in the rear seat when a steel truck driven by Vernon Hatcher, 27, of Quaker City, veered across the centerline striking the car and the steel on the trailer rolled off onto the top of the car driven by Mrs. Lewis, killing all the occupants.

Hatcher was indicted by the January Grand Jury for second degree manslaughter, but on Feb. 20, he was found not guilty by a jury.

Three other persons, three members of an East Liverpool family, in another car were also killed when the truck continued on down the road, striking their auto, in one of the state's most tragic accidents in years.

However, Frederick G. Dutton, the White House aide who is executive director of the platform committee, still tagged the writing of a civil rights plank as the most difficult task for the group.

The committee completed three days of hearings in Washington Wednesday and were to start taking additional testimony here this afternoon with Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze and Gov. Carl Sanders of Georgia among the witnesses.

The hearings are to be concluded Friday and the committee hopes to finish its drafting work late Saturday or early Sunday.

Western Reserve Board Names Building Committee

WESTERN RESERVE — Dr. Paul Olson, president of the Western Reserve District Board of Education, board member Theodore Keck and Superintendent Maurice Jones were organized into a committee to map new, detailed policy relating to school building use at the monthly meeting Wednesday night at the new Western Reserve High School.

Jones said other board policy would also be reviewed.

The committee plans to have the policy set before school opens Sept. 9.

The board employed Paul Chalfant of Berlin Center as a bus driver and Mrs. Howard Herman of Ellsworth as a cleaning matron at the Berlin building. Jones said the hirings complete the staff for the new term.

Also discussed were the entire custodial program, building

Youth Cited After Benton Rd. Crash

Cars driven by two Salem youths were involved in a rear end traffic mishap Wednesday at 11 a.m. on the Benton Rd. about five miles north of Salem near the Pennsylvania Railroad underpass. Neither the boy or girl was injured.

The Lisbon barracks of the State Highway Patrol said Miss Gayle Barbara Murdoch, 17, of 876 Homewood Ave. had stopped for slow-moving traffic ahead when her car was hit from behind by a vehicle operated by Raymond Lee Beech, 17, of 424 W. Pershing St. Both autos were moderately damaged.

Beech was cited to Juvenile Court.

Judge Moves To Dissolve Scioto Conservancy District

CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Judge William Ammer of Pickaway County, in a bitter attack on both sides, said today he is going to move to dissolve the embattled Scioto Conservancy District.

"Let us pray to God to spare the area of a flood," said Ammer. "We will be in no way prepared to cope with such a catastrophe."

Ammer made his attack in a lengthy statement criticizing the city of Columbus, its mayor, Maynard Sensenbrenner, Army Engineers and property owners who "do not want flood control by means of assessment."

The battle over the five-county conservancy district, established in 1961, has been boiling for some months. The issue is over who will build dam on Alum and Mill Creeks: Army Engineers or the Scioto district by means of assessing property owners.

More than 7,000 property owners have protested since the assessments were set.

Ammer said that if Army Engineer build the dams "it is well to assume that the funds may not be appropriated for 10 to 20 years."

The common pleas judge added:

"The people of the area have two alternatives:

"Have the conservancy district build the dams by means of property assessments or—

"Forget flood control entirely at this time and hope that there will be no floods."

The judge said he was going to propose the latter action.

"I do not know whether the other four judges of the Scioto Conservancy Court will approve of this action," Ammer said, but "if two other judges agree with my viewpoint, then all plans for the flood control projects will come to an end, except for whatever the Army Engineers may do."

The other judges are Howard Goldsberry of Ross County, Earl Parker of Pike County, Lowell Thompson of Scioto County and Kenneth L. Sater of Franklin County.

Ammer said the controversy began after the January 1959 flood which caused $6.2 million damage in the Columbus area and $2.8 million damage in Chillicothe, "where one third of the city was suddenly under water."

"Immediately a public demand rose for flood control," he said the city of Columbus and mayor Sensenbrenner asked for a new five-county flood control district. The old district had been dissolved a year before the flood.

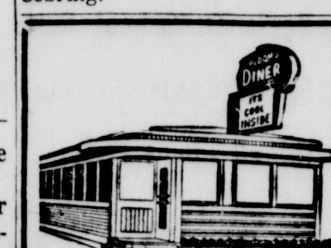

Ammer said "the public officials and civic group leaders—who now loudly protest—were fully aware of the plan for property assessments."

Ammer said he was going to move to dissolve the district "at a future meeting of the conservancy court . . . because I am convinced the affected property owners, in terms of majority, do not want flood control by means of assessment."

The next scheduled meeting of the conservancy court is Sept. 1.

contending the market value of the Johnson holdings far exceed their book value.

Burch said he found it peculiar that "the bulk of the fortune was made in areas subject to government regulation" over a period when he said Johnson was making an average of $12,000 a year in public service.

Observing that "a public officer must avoid not only evil but the appearance of evil," he said the Republicans want to know whether there was any "influence aired in the government-regulated field."

The accounting firm of Haskins and Sells, directed by the President July 7 to make an audit, reported that on July 31 Johnson, Mrs. Johnson and their two daughters, Lynda Bird and Luci Baines, had assets of $3,682,770 and liabilities of $198,672. This placed their net worth at $3,484,098.

Most of the Johnson holdings were in the name of his wife, Lady Bird. She had a net worth $378,081 for the president. Lynda Bird's net worth was $490,141 and Luci Baines' $498,578.

The audit showed that during the last 10 years Mrs. Johnson had drawn $570,856 in salary as an officer of Texas Broadcasting Corp. while her husband was getting $409,730 in salary and expenses. The family interest in the broadcasting company was valued at $2,543,838.

In arriving at the figures the auditors fixed the value of real estate held by the Johnsons at cost, less depreciation for the improvements on the land.

Haskins and Sells said in a letter to the President that the audit "conformed with generally accepted auditing standards."

But it added that the amounts listed for holdings in the broadcasting corporation, ranch properties and real estate outside of Texas "are not intended to indicate the values that might be realized if the investments were sold."

A week ago, the Valley National Bank, Phoenix, Ariz., reported the wealth of GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater and his wife at $1.7 million.

5-Day Dock Strike Ends In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Longshoremen were scheduled to return to docks at the Cleveland Stevedore Co. today, ending a five-day strike.

Thomas W. Gleason of New York, International Longshoremen's Association president, ordered an end to the strike Wednesday in a telegram sent here after a telephone conference with Cleveland Mayor Ralph S. Locher. Picket lines were removed.

Stevedore company president Thomas F. Coadley Wednesday asked for workers from ILA Local 1317 to man the warehouses. The union struck the company Saturday after a crew from a foreign ship moved cargo while the stevedores were on lunch.

Locher, in a three-hour meeting with Coadley and local union representatives Leon Ponikvar, Earl C. Dear and John Bell, worked out the following four-point program:

—Work will be resumed immediately.

—Both sides agreed that labor-management meetings will be held on any legitimate dispute or suggestion.

—Pocher's regular Friday meetings with each side, begun five weeks ago, will continue.

—Arbitrator Samuel S. Kates, who also joined the meeting, agreed to expedite hearings on 11 union grievances on file—ten of which were filed in the past two weeks.

Ponikvar, local union vice president, will not be among the men returning to work. Philip Fusco, regional director of the National Labor Relations Board, Wednesday rejected unfair labor practices filed by the union on behalf of Ponikvar and three other longshoremen.

They were among six men barred July 1 from working at Cleveland Stevedore and Lederer Terminal Warehouse Co., which prompted Locher to start regular Friday meetings with both sides. The two companies do more than 80 per cent of Cleveland's stevedoring.

Five ships bypassed Cleveland because of the strike and two others left without completing their loading.

Candidates Financial Status To Become Campaign Issue

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Now there's another log on the fire before the presidential campaign even starts. This time it's the private fortunes of the presidential candidates.

Less than two weeks ago, Sen. Barry Goldwater through his bank made public figures on his wealth. Johnson did the same on his wealth Wednesday through an accounting firm.

Within a few hours the Republican vice presidential candidate, Rep. William E. Miller of

New York, said the size of Johnson's fortune makes his integrity subject to "some question."

And Goldwater's handpicked chairman of the Republican National committee, Dean Burch, questioned the way the accounting firm had arrived at its figures on Johnson's financial worth.

He called it "most peculiar" and said the Republicans would make it an issue in the campaign.

The campaign isn't supposed to start until September but already Goldwater has called Johnson a "phony." Miller has questioned his integrity and Johnson has charged them with making false and reckless statements going for so early in the game.

It has taken some weeks for Johnson and Goldwater to get around to making public figures on their finances.

But in the 1952 campaign the two candidates — Adlai E. Stevenson and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower — waited much longer before reporting to the public on their income.

On Aug. 11 Time magazine estimated the wealth of Goldwater and his wife at $1.7 million. And on Aug. 13 a Phoenix, Ariz., bank which administers the Goldwater trust accounts said the value was $1.7 million.

An official of the bank — the Valley National Bank said Goldwater's income last year, including his $22,500 senate salary, was $65,000.

On June 9 the Washington Star reported the Johnson family holdings were worth an estimated $9 million.

On July 7 an accounting firm hired by Johnson was instructed by the President to audit the records of his family for the 10½ years from Jan. 1, 1954 to July 31, 1964.

Meanwhile, Life had been doing its own digging into Johnson's finances and said that in his years on the public payroll since the 1930s he had grown notably wealthy. Life estimated the family worth at $14 million.

Wednesday Johnson's order the accounting firm he hired — Haskins and Sells — publicly announced the Johnson family wealth at $3,484,098.

There are different ways of figuring wealth. If the book value is used the wealth could be presented as many times lower than the market value.

At a news conference at Roslyn, N.Y., Miller was asked if he thought the wealth of the President's family would be a campaign issue.

He said: "I would hope always that integrity in office and morality in office would be an issue. There would be some question about the integrity of a man who has been on the public payroll in a full time job for 30 years and during that time he is accumulating a personal fortune in excess of $14 million."

It was not clear whether Miller was aware of the much lower figure released by the accounting firm.

In calling the accounting of

FAIR GAME — Myrna Cohn demonstrates a new attraction at the Transportation and Travel Pavilion of the New York World's Fair. The game is called "Ski 'n' Shore." By "skiing" with the aid of hand grips and pedals, the player guides a tiny skier through 80 gates while dials clock time and accuracy.

Johnson's wealth "most peculiar," Burch told a news conference the approximately $3.5 million figure of the accounting firm was "incredibly low."

He said the way the total value of Johnson's assets was arrived at was "like listing the value of Manhattan island at $25."

HELD IN SHOOTING
GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Darke County authorities were holding a North Carolina man in the fatal shooting of a fellow tomato picker Wednesday. The shooting occurred at a migrant worker camp two miles south of nearby Ansonia.

The sheriff's office said the victim, 37-year-old James Wright of Fayetteville, N.C., was shot with a .22 caliber rifle. Held in the shooting was Leroy Bivens, 42, also of North Carolina.

In A. D. 97 the nine aqueducts of Rome provided 8 million U. S. gallons within the walls and 20 million U. S. gallons outside the walls. The system was organized under the republic by contractors who both built and by a board of curators with a ran it, and under the emperor slave staff directly supervised after A. D. 52 by an imperial procurator.

NO COMPLAINTS

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Wichita city leaders wonder if they have a town full of satisfied citizens.

A Post Office box, advertised as the place to send public complaints and general information for city fathers, received only one letter in two months.

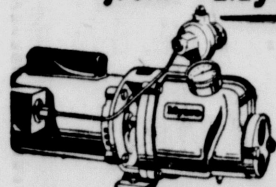

City commissioners voted to cancel the box subscription.

It is presumed that the opossum probably is the oldest living native mammal in North America.

Cross Country Nylon Tire

NEW Heavy-Duty Carcass with all NEW Tread That Stops Short, Even on Wet Pavements—Made with a NEW Accuracy Process

27 MONTH GUARANTEE

Specially Engineered
For Both Turnpike
Driving and Stop-
And-Go Traffic

It floats over bumps because it contains a greater volume of air under less pressure.

Extra blowout protection comes from a tension free construction that reduces the internal heat that weakens a tire.

Excellent traction on all surfaces comes from thousands of angled traction edges. Ribs have special edges to make steering easier, assure better control on the highway and on corners.

You're safer than ever because atomically controlled rubber processing brings you cooler-running, better balanced, extra mileage tires.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is no gag. I'm dead serious and I need some help. I look like Marlon Brando and it's ruining my life.

I'm 30 years old, happily married and the father of three-children. I'm a steady church goer.

The girl who runs the elevator in this building takes me down to the basement, pushes me stop button and tries to get friendly. The baby sitter keeps asking me to kiss her good night when I drive her home because I am so "mature" and she is sick of high school boys.

When I stop at a lunch counter, women come over and ask for my autograph. I tell them they are mistaken but they sit down anyway and want to get acquainted.

Yesterday my wife saw me having a cup of coffee with a beautiful young girl from the office who has been making a pest of herself lately. I may be in a little trouble at home. Please give me some help — CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

Dear Case: Why don't you arm yourself with a whip and a chair — or wear goggles and a Beanie wig?

A 30-year-old married man who doesn't want to get mixed up with dames knows how to steer clear without any help from me, so put that show on the road, Dad.

Independent Fiance

Dear Ann There are five children in our family and I'm the last to be married. Father is not wealthy, but he has provided well for us and is extremely generous.

When my brothers and sisters married he gave each a sum of money to help them get started. The oldest brother used his money to return to college for a master's degree. The second brother made a down payment on a beautiful bungalow. My sisters bought furniture.

The problem is my fiance. He does not believe in accepting money from parents. I have great respect for his spirit of independence, but I also feel I'm entitled to the same amount my brothers and sisters received.

Will you give us your opinion? — NO ORPHAN ME.

Dear No Orphan You: It seems clear these sums of money have been wedding gifts. Your fiance should not insult your father by refusing to accept such a gift.

After marriage, however, your fiance would be perfectly justified if he refused to accept money from your father. And I say more power to him.

Truth Comes Out

Dear Ann: I'll make it short and sweet. I'm a liar. I met this dreamy guy a few months ago at a resort. I told him I was a high school junior. The truth is I'm only a freshman. He was in college and I was dying to make a hit with him. I thought it would help if he believed I was a junior.

He is coming to this city in a few weeks and I am afraid he will find out the truth.

Should I tell him I was sick in the hospital for two years? Or would it be better if I told him my folks took me on a trip around the world and I missed a lot of school?

I will straighten out the lie about my age later. I said I was 17 and I'm really 15. Right now I want to square this thing about being two years behind in school. The truth is I'm right where I ought to be. — HEAP BIG TROUBLES.

Dear Heap: You're where you ought to be all right — out on a limb with a nice sharp saw.

That's the trouble with a lie — you usually have to tell six more to cover up the first one. Confess that you fibbed because you wanted to impress him and do it promptly before someone beats you to it. Tell him from now on you're going to play it straight. And for heaven's sake DO it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

McMahon's Relief Job Gives Tribe 6-4 Win Over A's

Appears 53rd Time To Hurl

2 Teams Wind Up Series Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP)—Don McMahon, a 34-year-old relief specialist, has turned into the Cleveland Indians' No. 1 game saver. The veteran righthander, who has the best earned run average of the pitching corps, preserved a 6-4 victory over Kansas City Wednesday night.

McMahon, a 6-foot-2, 222-pounder, rescued lefty Sam McDowell with the score 6-4 in the seventh inning and one out and two on. He retired the first two he faced to end the threat, then shut out the A's on just one hit.

It was McMahon's first appearance in five games and his sixth save of the season. He now has appeared 53 times this season in relief, 10 shy of Joe Heving's 1944 record for the most games by an Indian pitcher.

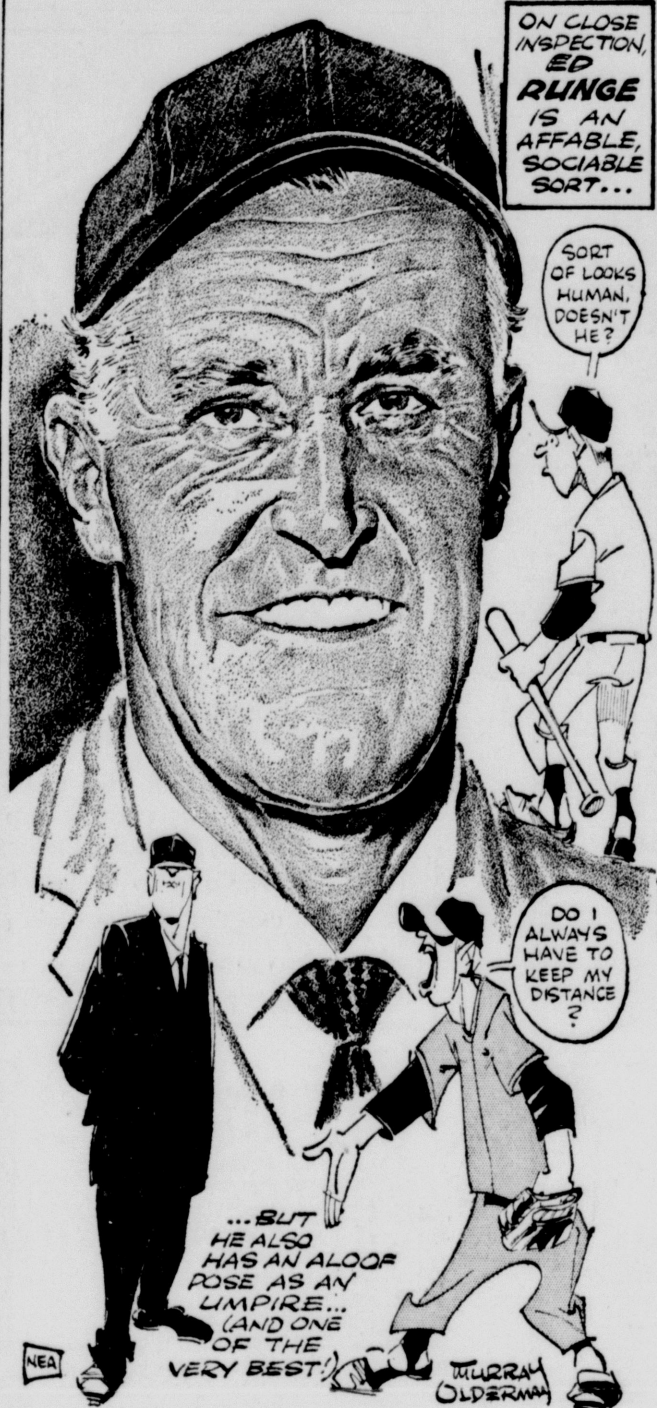

McMahon, who has a sparkling 1.34 ERA, now has extended to eight the number of consecutive games in which he has not allowed an earned run.

Vic Davalillo drove in three runs with a third-inning single that broke a 2-2 tie. The Tribe loaded the bases with two out on walks to Dick Howser, Leon Wagner and Tito Francona. Then, with all runners moving on a 3-2 pitch, Davalillo hit to right field, sending all three home.

Joe Azcue, who had three for four, knocked in two of the Indians' runs. He singled across Wagner, who had walked, in the second, and did the same in the fifth. Cleveland also scored an unearned run in the second.

The Tribe winds up its 4-game series with the A's tonight with Lee Stange (5-12) opposing Kansas City's Bob Meyer (1-4).

CALL OF DUTY

4 Tackles Eye Starting Spots

Rookies Battling Old Pros On Browns' Defensive Unit

HIRAM, Ohio (AP)—The old argument of youth versus experience is being debated here with gusto as four defensive tackles try for starting jobs with the Cleveland Browns.

On the youthful side are Frank Parker, 24, in his third pro season and Jim Kanicki, a 22-year-old sophomore in the National Football League. Veterans are Bob Gain and Dick Modzelewski, both with 11 years' pro experience.

Parker and Gain were regulars last season, with Kanicki in reserve. But Modzelewski, obtained in an off-season trade with the New York Giants, is making a strong bid for one of the starting assignments. Kanicki also has impressed coaches with his rugged aggressiveness. Modzelewski is the smallest of the four at 6 feet, 245 pounds. The other three are all over 6-foot-3 and above 265 pounds.

Palmer Fires 68 In Tuneup For American Golf Classic

By JOE MOOSHL
AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Masters champion Arnold Palmer and long-hitting Jack Nicklaus, having played a practice round together, both were convinced the Firestone course is ready to be taken during the $50,000 American Golf Classic beginning today.

Palmer, one of the four men who has conquered this 7,165-yard layout with subpar totals after four rounds in three previous classics, said the course with its par of 35-35-70 is in beautiful condition.

"I'm sure it'll take a 276 to win it," said Palmer, who fired that score to win the classic in 1962 and then saw Johnny Pott capture first place last year with a 276 as Palmer finished second with a 280.

Nicklaus, coming off a 10-day rest from tournament competition, said, "The guy who wins it this year might do better than 276. The greens are consistent and putting will be much easier."

Palmer had a 34-34-68 in his practice round Wednesday while Nicklaus came in with a 35-35-69.

Nicklaus, the tour's leading money winner with $96,217, could go over the $100,000 mark if he takes down top prize of $7,500 or even second money of $4,000.

"I need the money," said Nicklaus who has invested heavily in a new home and a private plane.

It'll be Nicklaus' only chance to haul money from Akron this year since the Golden Bear failed to win any of the four major tournaments and will not be eligible to compete in the World Series of Golf to be played over Firestone Sept. 12-13. Nicklaus won the World Series last year and in 1962, picking up a $50,000 check each time. Palmer, who qualified for the series by winning the Masters, will be studying the course carefully. So will National Open Champion Ken Venturi, British Open Champion Tony Lema and PGA titlist Bobby Nichols. They will make up the World Series foursome.

Beaver Boosters Plan Queen Contest

Applications for Miss Tri-State Harvest Queen are being accepted by the Beaver Local Booster Club.

The winner will be announced at 10 p.m. Sept. 26 at Beaver Local High School. Voting will be done according to a system of one penny per vote with receipts to be given to the Booster Club.

Only single girls with parental or guardian's consent are eligible to enter. No former queen of the event will be considered. Entrant's age must be 15 to 19 years on Sept. 15.

Votes will be announced each week. Three snapshots of each entrant are required and will be returned. Entry blanks may be obtained from Mrs. Warren H. Bradley, Cannons Mill Rd., RD 1, East Liverpool.

Deadline for entries is midnight Sept. 1. Asters, orchids and grasses (in that order) have more species than any other families of flowering plants.

Boston Expects Better Season Then Title Team Posted In '63

ANDOVER, Mass. (AP)—Boston won the 1963 Eastern Division championship with the American Football League's best defense and quarterback Babe Parilli operating at "25 per cent efficiency." "We hope to be better this year," said Coach Mike Holovak. "Injuries slowed down Parilli last year and hurt his timing. Babe led the league in pass interceptions. The year before he had the fewest interceptions."

Parilli is in his 11th season of pro ball at the age of 34. Holovak's Patriots beat Buffalo in the division playoff last December but were crushed 51-10 by powerful San Diego in the title game.

Injuries at the running back position put a heavy burden on Larry Garrison, the "Pats" double duty fullback. Ron Burton, No. 1 running back, missed the entire regular season because of a back ailment and disc operation. His replacements were part time men.

Rookies J.D. Garrett of Grambling and Pete Pedro of West Texas State have been running ahead of Burton in the early games. Tom Neumann backs up Garrison and Harry Crump is ready to play.

"We certainly expect a better season at flanker than we got from Jim Colclough last year," said Holovak. "We anticipate a better year at quarterback and figure on help for Garrison."

Gino Cappelletti, defending

AFL scoring champion, must battle Colclough for the flanker job. Art Graham will be the split end as Holovak seeks more speed for the position.

The retirement of tackle Milt Graham and the trading of Walt Cudzik forced Holovak to rebuild his offensive line.

Rookie Jon Morris of Holy Cross has taken over at center with competition from Bob Dentel. Bob Yates and either Don Oakes or rookie Jay Donovan of Boston College will be the tackles and Billy Neighbors and Charley Long at guards. Tony Romeo has the edge at tight end.

"Our defensive unit will be the same as last year," said Holovak. "Then add Don Webb, who didn't play a minute because of a knee injury."

Holovak is particularly pleased with his linebacking corps of Nick Buoniconti, Jack Rudolph and Tommy Addison, with Don McKinnon behind them. Bob Dee, Jesse Richards, Larry Eisenhauer are the front four.

With Webb back to man the left corner, the deep defense includes Dick Felt at the right corner and safeties Ross O'Hanley and Ron Hall.

2 Programs Scheduled At Canfield

Canfield Speedway leads off a double program this week, with the Tri-State Destruction Derby Friday night. An added feature on Friday will be a fireworks display.

Saturday night some 125 late model and amateurs will be on hand for a 12-race program. A 30-lap feature for the late models and 20 laps for the amateurs will head the event.

Fifty cars are entered for the second demolition derby. There will be four preliminary events with the first two finishers in each event qualifying for the finals.

Among the early entries are Ross Cooper of Youngstown, Gerry Grace of Canfield, Phil Elser of Warren, James Newberry of Warren, Bill Motz of Youngstown, Jack Miles of Niles, James Gray of Youngstown, Cal Shilling of Youngstown, Joe Peltz of Campbell and Dale Bowser of Youngstown. The latter four drivers each have four cars entered or one for each preliminary event. Miles has three and Grace two.

Canfield officials are streamlining the track for Saturday night's stock car racing activity. The track has been extended slightly with more of a slope of each of the turns.

Superior, Duquesne Keep Flying B Leads

Superior Wallpaper and Duquesne retained their first place leads in the Flying B Golf League following action recently.

Duquesne has led Thursday's bracket for several weeks, and has a seven point margin over second place Flying B.

Ralph Pew fired a one under par 35 to take medalist honors, and with his four-handicap he tied Earl Shasteen, 39-8-31, for low net.

Flying B chalked up the team low gross 152, and tied Fernengels for low net 138.

Corso's trails Superior Wallpaper in Friday's Division by only a point. Penn Grill and Santini Builders are deadlocked in third place with 106 markers.

Ralph Knepper shot a 36 to take individual low gross honors. Lee Hahn came in with a 32 for low net.

Corso's led the loop with a 158 team effort for low gross, and also had low net 142.

Vandalia Trapshoot Event Starts Friday

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
VANDALIA, Ohio (AP)—The 65th Grand American Trapshoot opens Friday with a bang-bang-bang!

And despite high temperatures, this Miami Valley town may be wearing ear-muffs—to muffle the noise of more than a million exploding 12-gauge shotgun shells the next nine days.

Scattergun artists from all the states and Canada will be on hand for the clay target test on the three-quarter mile firing line. The entry for the No. 1 event — the Grand American Handicap scheduled Aug. 28 — is expected to be near 2,600.

Last year Albert Kees of Richmond, Ind., broke 100 straight to take the handicap crown and some $8,000 in cash. His perfect score was only the eighth in 64 years, as he whipped a field of 2,527.

The championship races get under way Monday, after three days of preliminary firing, and multiple titles at 16 yards, handicap and doubles targets will be decided.

Hundreds of the competitors camp on the shooting grounds for the duration, living in everything from army pup tents to luxurious mobile homes. Most of them bring their families along.

The "Roaring Grand" can be an expensive proposition, despite the fact the novices and unknowns usually win the big handicap races which pay the biggest purses.

To participate in all the preliminary races, in which 700 targets will be thrown, and the 1,000-target championship program, requires payment of $136.50 in entry fees, $90 in purses and $190 for shells.

That adds up to $416. But the big money is in the "options" in which each marksman is allowed to make a bit of wager on his own prowess against the field. To play all the options costs another $530, so to go "all the way" demands an outlay of $946.50 in addition to travel, food and lodging.

The unknowns get their big chance in the handicaps, in which the shooters are placed from 18 to 27 yards back of the trap from which the flying clays emerge. The better shots, from take the title. But a novice, having a good day from up close, can earn a hefty payday.

Phillies Pad NL Lead To 6; Mets Win on Hickman's Slam

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies were nursing a six-game lead today in the National League pennant race.

The San Francisco Giants and Cincinnati Reds were nursing welts.

The Phillies built their lead over second-place San Francisco to the biggest of the season by whipping the Chicago Cubs 9-5 Wednesday after the Reds handed the Giants their fourth straight loss 7-1 in the biggest beanball battle of the season.

The Reds-Giants game was still in the top of the first inning when Cincinnati's Frank Robinson was hit on the left arm by a Don Heriel pitch. Robinson started toward the San Francisco pitcher but was restrained by Umpire Chris Pelekoudas while Giant shortstop Jim Davenport grabbed Heriel as both benches emptied.

The umpires had to step in only a few minutes later when Robinson started from first base toward Heriel. And, later, when Robinson was retired at second base on a double play, he and Davenport had a few words.

"I know when I'm getting thrown at," said an angered Robinson after the game.

"He was yelling things at me I can't even repeat," said Heriel. "I was ready to fight him."

Reds' starter Bob Purkey was hit by a John Pregoner pitch in the fourth inning, bringing a warning from Pelekoudas and an automatic fine. Purkey, meanwhile, evened the struggle by hitting Jim Hart twice.

In between, Robinson hit two homers and Chico Ruiz collected four hits in support of Purkey's six-hit pitching, pulling the Reds to within one game of the Giants in the standings. The Giants skid has brought them closer to sixth place than first.

Elsewhere Jim Hickman's grand slam homer gave the New York Mets a 4-2 victory over Pittsburgh, Houston edged the St. Louis Cardinals 8-7 on a run-producing single by Nellie Fox in the 10th inning and the Los Angeles Dodgers outslugged Milwaukee 7-6 with a 14-hit attack.

Robinson was hit by Heriel after Vada Pinson had doubled home two runs for the Reds in the first. Robinson then did some of his own hitting, slamming his 23rd homer in the third inning and No. 24 in the seventh.

Purkey brought his record to 7-7, allowing the Giants only run when he threw wild on a grounder after Hal Lanier doubled.

The Phillies got the job done in the eighth inning, overcoming a 5-4 deficit with a five-run explosion. Clay Dalrymple and Tony Taylor triggered the rally with singles before Wes Covington drove in the tying and winning runs with a pinch double.

The Cubs had snapped a 4-4 tie in the top half of the inning on singles by Joey Amalfitano, Billy Williams and Ron Santo, who earlier hit his 24th homer.

The Mets won their fourth straight — their longest winning streak of the season — when Hickman blasted a Vern Law pitch into the parking area beyond left field with the bases loaded in the sixth inning.

That was more than enough for Tracy Stallard, who had a shutout until Bill Virdon hit a two-run homer in the ninth. Stallard brought his record to 7-16 with a six-hitter.

The Colts won it in the 10th when Al Spangler singled, continued to second on Curt Flood's error and rode home on Fox's single.

The Colts tied the score in the ninth when Bob Aspromonte drove in his fourth run with a single after the Cardinals had taken the lead with four runs in their half.

Frank Howard hit his first homer in 25 days and drove in three runs for the Dodgers, who blew most of a five-run lead but held on behind Ron Perranoski's relief pitching. Perranoski struck out Lee Maye with the bases loaded and two runs in, cutting off the Braves final threat in the eighth inning.

Scott's Fisher's Lead At Robbyn's

Gordon Scott's golf team held on to its first place lead, and Penn Grill moved from fourth to second in the standings of the American Division of the Robbyn's Golf League.

In the National bracket, Fisher's Realty still has a commanding lead with 112½ - 43½ record.

Penn Grill trails Gordon Scott by two points. In third place is Pittsburgh and Moose with 98½-57½ marks.

Ralph Knepper of Penn Grill, and Dave Pritchard of Sebring Pure Oil tied for medalist honors with 36s. Cy Albert of Penn Grill came in with a 37.

Dusty Rhodes of Columbia Gas No. 2 in the National Division fired a two under par 34 for individual low gross. Denny Steed of Maher Appliance carded 36, and Del Court of Herron Foods posted a 37.

Reese Recalls Memorable Grid Moments As College, Pro Player

Dr. David E. Reese, author of the following, is Denison University's "all-time athlete," served for 18 years as commissioner of the Mid-American Conference, and for decades was one of America's top-flight referees.

By DAVE REESE
For The Associated Press
I've had three great sports thrills—all in football games.

The first came in 1914, when I was center and captain of the Denison team. Although badly outweighed, we defeated Miami 40-33 to capture the Ohio collegiate championship.

Winning that one, as a youngster, is something I'll never forget, although it was a half-century ago.

The next big one came in the early twenties, in a professional game between the world champion Canton Bulldogs and the Dayton Triangles—both original members of the National Football League.

Canton had three Indians in its backfield, Joe Guyon, Pete Calac and the immortal Jim Thorpe, first player chosen for the professional Hall of Fame.

With the score tied 14-14 in the third quarter, Thorpe kicked a 47-yard dropkick to put Canton ahead 17-14. In the pro game I played right end, and our quarterback was Al Mahrt who played at St. Marys Institute, now the University of Dayton.

Late in the game, and behind 17-14, I received a 50-yard pass from Al on Canton's 30-yard line and went the rest of the way for a touchdown as we went ahead 20-17.

I wish I could say we won the game, but I can't. With the clock running out, Thorpe booted a 48-yard place kick and the game ended in a 20-20 tie.

I have to say that touchdown play, which gave Dayton a tie against what was then the finest football team in the country.

was my biggest thrill as a professional.

The Denison-Miami and Dayton Canton games are the ones from yesteryear that the old-timers around Dayton still talk about more than any others.

As an official, my big thrill came in Yankee stadium in 1944, in the Army-Notre Dame game. I was referee, and Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard, Army's All-America backs were in their plebe year as "Mr. Outside and Mr. Inside."

Blanchard, a pile-driving full-back, usually went up the middle. But on one play he took a handoff and cut wide. I was in his path and we collided, both falling behind the line of scrimmage. Doc got up, but I didn't.

I suffered a broken leg and they carried me off to the hospital.

But I was the only one that year who stopped Blanchard behind his own line of scrimmage as he and Davis led Army to 10 straight victories and the national championship — and that was thrill enough for me.

Alan Gill

The triumphantly casual gentleman who breezed into the great living room, patted his little daughter affectionately up on the noggin, and then sat on the piano bench along-side his inef-fably beautiful wife was Bing Crosby. His entrance line was to be sung ("And what's more sang to himself in the hall. When he blew a later line at the piano, he boasted happily, "My mistake was perfect."

THE GROANER, as you may have heard by now, is busy throwing together his first situation comedy series, "The Bing Crosby Show," as a Monday night pride and joy of ABC-TV this coming season. In it he plays a prosperous electrical engineer with a wife (Miss Garland), two daughters (Carol Faylen, Diane Sherry), and a house guest who arrived 10 years ago and hasn't yet said goodbye (Frank McHugh). Between scenes, he explained his decision to invade television comedy: "I couldn't get in movies, so I thought I'd try this."

Each show, he said, opens and closes with a new Sammy Cahn-Jimmy Van Huse song. "There's More to Life Than Just Living," and works another song ("Birth of the Blues," "Green Sleeves") into the action somewhere along the way. "In one show," he went on, "I get to do a bit of old soft shoe to 'Sweet Georgia Brown' and let me tell you it's pretty lousy, too. Actually, we just throw in the music for the writers. They don't have to write so many lines."

BUT THE MUSIC, it should be stressed, is incidental to the comedy situations. "One show calls for a golf course sequence," said Bing, "and then there's a necking scene up there on Mulholland Drive. And Frank and I have a flashback show, about our days in the Army." But in all the shows, Bing was happy to report, he plays a quite unique TV role — that of an intelligent husband and father. "The TV fella's generally kind of a sap, isn't he?"

The scripts, according to Stephen Gethers, producer of the series, are written by "writers, not joke writers, and they're pretty adept at coming with Crosbyisms." A Crosbyism, he said, was the use of a three-syllable word (curmudgeon, for example) where a one-syllable word (grump) would do. And the theme of the show, if there is one, is "adult love": "We work a bedroom scene into every show, because we want to show a warm, happy couple still in love after 20 years of marriage."

BEVERLY GARLAND came to Crosby's attention, said Gethers, through a "Farmer's Daughter" episode in which she played a pregnant Congresswoman. "We signed her on right away," Her role here, as he described it, is that of a girl "who loves to sing but who sings badly, who loves to dance but dances badly."

"Imagine me singing with Bing Crosby!" Miss Garland was saying a moment later. "What guts! Why, I haven't the faintest idea what KEY we were singing in. I never sing, not even in the shower, because my husband won't let me. I don't know why they chose me for the part. I've always played heavily dramatic parts — the leader of a gang, with 70 guys around me. Or I'm dying. Or my children are dying."

"I appeared in the first 'Dr. Kildare' episode, as an alcoholic who attempts suicide. When people heard of my coming on to Bing's new show, they said, 'They can't take her! She kills people!' Oops, I'm being paged."

She raced back to her piano stool; for her TV husband, looking younger than Maverick and sounding as mellow as cafe diabol ("Bah bah bye bye bye") was about to make his seventh grand entrance.

TO STAR IN COMEDY — Marie Wilson, best known for her lead role in the radio and television series, "My Friend Irma," will head the cast of "Lo and Behold," a comedy set to run from Aug. 25 to 30 at the Canal Fulton Summer Arena.

GO-BETWEEN — John Seab, above, former Associated Press reporter now with the American Broadcasting Company, was a key go-between in "probably decisive" U. S.-Soviet exchanges leading to a break-through in the 1962 Cuba missile crisis, according to a State Department intelligence head at the time.

Lisbon Social

By ETTA MAE ALEXANDER
Mrs. Maxine Eaholtz, president of the V. F. W. Auxiliary, presided at the regular meeting held Tuesday evening at the post home.

The evening attendance prize went to Dorothy Kessel and Catherine McKee received the door prize.

The next meeting will be Sept. 1, and Lillie Boggs, sixth district president, will attend. Seven members of T. O. C. and their guest, Mrs. John Trunick, dined in Wellsville, Tuesday evening.

Later, they met at the Trunick home on N. Beaver St. for a brief business meeting and social time.

The next meeting Sept. 15, will be at the home of Mrs. Hazel Jamison of E. High St. Atty. and Mrs. William Wetzel of Barborton were hosts to a family party Sunday in honor of their son, Mark's birthday. Those present were Atty. Wetzel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wetzel of W. Maple St. and his aunt, Miss Della Wetzel of W. Washington St.

Students

Among 484 candidates for degrees at commencement exercises Aug. 23 at 10:30 a.m. in Miami University's Withrow Court will be the following area graduates:

Miss Marjorie Lane Kerr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Kerr of Damascus, Miss Linda Sue Heston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Heston of 1079 Jennings Ave., and Douglas Bertrand Byrns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Byrns of North Canton.

Four Children In One Family Drown

CORNWALL, N.Y. (AP) — All four children of Mr. and Mrs. John Perrone drowned Wednesday after Dolores, 12, fell into a creek and her three brothers, John Jr., 13, Tony, 10, and Rocco, 5, jumped in to save her.

None of the four could swim. The Padang of the South Shan states deform the necks of their women by making them wear — from early childhood onwards — high metal collars whose length is gradually increased; this eventually produces elongation and dislocation of the neck that if the collars were removed the wearers would not be able to hold up their heads.

HEADS JUSTICE OFFICE
Prof. James Vorenberg, above, of Harvard Law School, has been named director of an office of criminal justice within the Justice Department. Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy announced this is a step toward an intensive, unemotional effort to end injustices in the administration of criminal law.

Red Chinese Beat Russians In Battle for Asia, Africa

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
The Red Chinese have won an important round against the balked and frustrated Soviet Communists in a battle over who calls the shots among Communists of Asia and Africa.

AP News Analysis

Moscow virtually has thrown in the towel after a long struggle to force its way into the Communist-backed Asian-African solidarity organization.

The outcome has important meaning for Asia. Peking has enjoyed considerable success in keeping the door to Asian communist closed to the Soviet Union. This means the Russians have little influence, for example, on what takes place in a powderkeg situation such as Viet Nam.

The Kremlin, with little choice, had to bow out as gracefully as possible. To insist upon being recognized as an Asian nation and then be voted down by a Red Chinese majority would have been painful.

The fight concerned who would participate in a conference planned by the organization for next March. The first such conference was held at Bandung, Indonesia, in 1955, and the Russians attended. Moscow says the Chinese opposed the Russians on racial ground and even pictured the U.S.S.R. as if it were in the same category as "colonial powers with possessions in Asia and Africa." That stung badly.

Trying to make the best of it, Moscow sent messages to Asian and African governments, saying "the Soviet Union cannot allow the question of its invitation to be embarrassing for Afro-Asian countries, and especially its use by anyone for sowing discord among them."

Moscow bowed out.

The message said Moscow didn't take the initiative in raising the question of its attendance in the first place. Perhaps it didn't, but the Kremlin obviously wanted an invitation, and complained the Red Chinese game.

This battle has raged a long time. The Soviets date it to 1962 and what they call "the tragic conflict on the frontiers" between Red China and India, and Red China's "narrow nationalism."

Early in 1963 at Moshi, Tanganyika, the Chinese, apparently with unlimited money at their disposal, tried to seize control of an Asian-African meeting, and had a fierce clash with the Russians. It seemed pretty much a draw. Then, in September, the Russians tried to ram through an approval of their partial nuclear test ban treaty. They were defeated in a meeting of the solidarity organization at Nicosia, Cyprus.

In April, the group held another preparatory meeting in Indonesia. Soviet participation was proposed. Russian-hating Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi engineered the burial of that proposal and the Russians were furious. They took their case directly to Asian and African governments with special messages.

They have just done this again, in what appears an attempt to go over the heads of delegations whose Communist members seem to be in the hands of the Chinese.

"It is obvious that if some forces, proceeding from their factional goals, do not wish the Soviet Union to attend the conference," the Soviet message fumed, "this harms the national liberation movement."

The "national liberation movement" is Communist language for revolutionary movements in underdeveloped countries subject to seizure by the Communists.

Evidently Red China, North Korea, North Viet Nam, the Japanese Communists and others ganged up on the Russians. If Moscow were invited, they would refuse to attend the meeting, and there would be no solidarity meeting.

Broken Red Tape

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Flushed with victory, your correspondent can report that he has busted through Washington red tape.

"What kind of red tape?" you may ask. Federal red tape No. private-enterprise red tape!

For 10 days your reporter, whom we shall call Mr. X, arose in the morning and found his wife grumpy.

"I've been letting my artistic eye roam over this room," she said, waving her hand around the living room of our modest house on the edge of Georgetown, "and I've decided it needs refurbishing."

"Just look at that armchair you've been sitting in for 35 years, and dropping ashes on. Its stuffing is coming out," she said.

"Okay," said Mr. X, who was in his usual morning state, that is weakened and defenseless. "Let's go over to a big department store and buy a new chair."

The store has a couple of acres of furniture and you can roam it without much intervention by sales persons. There don't seem to be many such persons on the premises.

Suddenly Mrs. X's eyes lighted up, she shed her grumpy mood and pointed. "That's the chair," she hollered.

Mr. X looked up a salesman, who shall be known as Mr. Y, and said, in his innocence, "We'll take that chair."

Mr. Y, with a pitying tone as if initiating a novice into the mysteries of big business, said: "But, sir, you cannot have it."

"How's that again?" inquired Mr. X.

"It will take me at least six weeks to get that chair from the factory," said Mr. Y.

"But I don't want a chair from the factory," protested Mr. X. "I want that chair. There it is right there, with a sign on its saying 'sale $99.'"

"Sir," said Mr. Y, "if I sold you that chair, it would disrupt our orderly procedure. Besides, if we let go of it, there would be an empty space where it was."

Mr. and Mrs. X retired to a nearby cocktail lounge and conferred. The upshot was a decision that they would not take this reclining in any easy chair.

The thing to do was fight to spend the $99 that was burning a hole in their pockets.

Over the next four days, Mr. X kept calling up higher and higher echelons in the department store and finally hit the jackpot.

He put in a call for the president of the store and — contrary to every expectation — got him. The president, who shall be known as Mr. Z, apparently had let all his eight secretaries go to lunch at one time, and therefore had to answer the phone himself.

Mr. X laid his piteous plea before the head man. All he wanted to do, Mr. X said, was to spend $99, and then he added this clincher out of the outmoded past:

"When I was a boy in Lowell, Massachusetts," said Mr. X. "I worked in a drygoods store. And, believe me, if we had sold everything in that store — stripped it clean — by Saturday night, we would have been happy. We'd have been glad to have sold the customers the gaslight fixtures off the wall."

The response of Mr. Z, the head man, was instantaneous. "Lot of damn nonsense," he rumbled in a Harvard accent, or was it Yale?

"Who is a lot of damn nonsense?" asked Mr. X, quivering. "Me?"

"No," said the head man, "you deserve to get that chair, and you'll get it on the next delivery."

And it arrived, all done up cellophane, with the names of Mr. and Mrs. X on big tags all over it. Thing to remember now is — don't drop cigarette ashes on it.

Hal Boyle is on vacation.

Mandate

by Thomasville

Contemporary Styling with just enough
Far East flavor to give character to any room in your home

Pictures cannot begin to do this fine group justice. You must see it. See the dining table with its elegant inlay tops. See the bed with its faintly oriental design with the headboard that can be reversed from cane to wood. Come see the whole Mandate collection... a fascinating array of designs for living, dining and bedroom.

The wood is walnut, light in color, with accents of quartered cherry and Carpathian Elm burl veneers. Despite Mandate's luxurious look it's priced well within the reach of those who like nice things.

Although never before shown
Mandate is now being offered at
